

An Invocation for Transformation

Kai Karrel

I call upon and I invoke the presence of my fiery spirit.

I dream awake a compelling future where my now is illuminated with the knowing I have chosen to awaken and I choose my life as I wish it to be.

It is in this moment that I make a conscious choice,

That be what may I will walk with a raised chin and an open chest,

I will choose my actions and empower myself with my own decisions.

I no longer wish to befriend my own demise; I no longer wish to walk in the smallness of my own shadow. I am the light I seek, and I am the path that leads me home.

My voice is heard and my presence is here, in this now and so forever shall it be.

I need not an external reason or a compelling circumstance. I walk away from despair and choose my heart as my source of inspiration. I have all I need and have no excuse to lean upon nor do I hold on to fears of failure or success.

My path is illuminated as I take my steps upon it. My destiny is written with the song of my own creation. I am becoming and growing unto my own sovereignty and freedom. I am the force and the liberating power. I am the knowing and the core of my own truth.

I declare my own sense of divine purpose, I give meaning to this journey and walk towards the shining of my own sun. I call upon and I invoke the presence of my Celestial Heart may it lead me to freedom and my truest, most authentic transformation.

And so it is.
